To:	Dorota Kucharski <dkucharski@internationaltechnologicalsociety.org>
From:	Luciano Moretti <lmorette@internationaltechnologicalsociety.org>
Date:	8 August
Subject:	Research results

Ms. Kucharski,

The following is a summary of what I have learned in my research about where to hold our next annual technology conference in June of next year.

In Rome, the best option I have found is Hotel al Ponte. The total cost for conference events there would be €31,500. — [1] —. Individual hotel rooms would cost €80 per night for participants. In the event that attendance is high, we could also house participants in the nearby Hotel Milvio at €120 per night. — [2] —.

I also looked into hotels in Genoa and Florence, but I could not find any that would be much cheaper in overall conference costs. — [3] —. More importantly, I am concerned that the greater cost of flights to those smaller cities could discourage some attendees. Rome, on the other hand, has affordable direct flights from most European cities. — [4] —. It will also be more affordable for our colleagues coming from Buenos Aires.

If you would like to pursue the Hotel al Ponte option, I will provide a detailed write-up of the anticipated costs and of the amenities offered by the hotel.

Best,

Luciano Moretti
Secretary, International Technological Society

This is my second year subscribing to the Central University Health Newsletter, which I read cover to cover. I'm particularly impressed with the Ask an Expert column, and I always learn something new. This month, for instance, Dr. Stella Booth gives a surprising answer to the question of which pasta is most nutritious. Subject: Your recent invoice

Dear Lisa,

Thank you for sending your invoice for services rendered in the month of September. I want to commend you on your superb start as one of our independent freelance editors. Our clients had nothing but positive things to say about your work. As you know, we do not dictate how you structure your workday; instead, Brit-Revision (BRV) guidelines require simply that deadlines be met and that work quality be maintained. You have done both admirably.

Also, we will pay you for an additional 30 minutes of work that you did for Mr. Kent. He reported that you did consulting work for him over the phone on a short oral presentation that he created. As for the work that you did for our long-standing corporate client Lydia Quinn, you will see on your receipt that we have paid you at a higher hourly rate.

I have initiated the transfer of £750 into your Stashcash account. The funds should appear in your account by tomorrow morning.

Sincerely,

Claudio Aguilar
Accounts Payable, Brit-Revision Editing Services

Don't hesitate to reach out if you have any questions.

Welcome aboard!

To:	Felix Herman <felixh@videogenieproductions.com>
From:	Sapna Mathai <smathai@thehospitalequipmentco.com>
Date:	September 17
Subject:	Notes on rough cut of video
Attachment:	Information

Dear Mr. Herman,

Thank you for sending the rough version of the informational video for our new Fluorolook Imager. I think that the video looks great so far. It clearly demonstrates why the Fluorolook is the best medical imaging device available. I have just a few notes before you proceed to create the final version.

- At 20 seconds: Could you insert a short timeline of the history of The Hospital Equipment Company? I have attached the relevant information to this e-mail.
- At 1 minute: I had a hard time seeing the details of the control panel in this scene. Could you please replace it with a close-up shot?
- At 2 minutes: The sequence in which the medical technician positions the patient and adjusts the machine moves too quickly. Can this be slowed down?

I look forward to seeing the final version on September 23. As always, thank you and your colleagues at Video Genie Productions for the excellent work.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sapna Mathai, Project Manager
